Letter from Reverend Bladen October 2019

I wonder if like me you hardly dare turn on the news at the moment? Day after day, week after week we hear the constant arguing, debate and discussion about Brexit and what kind of Brexit we could or should have. It's torn the government apart, it's divided political parties and it's even divided families and friends. Whether we voted to leave or to remain, the length of time it's taking and the constant debate has led to a feeling of uncertainty in almost everything in the country. To quote the estate agent currently trying to sell my house; 'We find ourselves entering uncharted territory which could prove to be a little turbulent.'

In the midst of uncertain times it's often hard to be positive and hard to find hope. In our Sunday services across the Benefice this Autumn we are concentrating on some of the characters from the Old Testament. People like Moses, Joshua and Abraham, David and Daniel, Esther and Ruth, all who also lived in challenging and uncertain times. Between them they contended with wars and famine, personal struggles and loss of identity, giants and lions, and all kinds of political and economic unrest and uncertainty. But in and through all their situations they had a growing reassurance that God was in it with them. Whether they were rescued from their situation or lived through it God was in the midst of it... holding on to them. When Joshua took over leading Israel after Moses had died, God spoke to him saying; "Be strong and courageous; do not be frightened or dismayed, for the LORD your God is with you..." (Joshua 1:9) And in the New Testament when there was much uncertainty among the new Christians, St Paul encourages them to find things to be thankful for, and to rejoice in the good things they have in their lives. He encourages them saying; "Do not be anxious about anything, but in every situation, by prayer and petition, with thanksgiving, present your requests to God." (Philippians 4:6).

So whether this unsettled time worries you or just frustrates you... Perhaps like me you can find hope in the fact that throughout the bible we can see a God who loves us and walks through all of life with us, and like those ancient characters, we simply need to put our trust in Him.

If you'd like to join me and many others across the country in praying for our nation, this is a prayer from the Church of England.

*God of hope
In these times of change,
Unite our nation and guide our leaders with your wisdom.
Give us courage to overcome our fears,
And help us to build a future
In which all may prosper and share,
Through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen*

God Bless
Cathy Bladen, Rector

News from Barningham CEVC School children:

The nights are drawing in and 'winter is coming'. The shops are full of the chaos that is Bonfire, Hallowe'en, Christmas – I often understand why children confuse all of our festivals and special times when you see the displays. We celebrate the autumn with a very traditional Harvest Festival at the church – and ask the children to bring into school tins and dried goods for the local food bank. The children have written prayers of thanks and spent time reflecting on what it might be like to go without food for days. Children are very generous with their thoughts and kindness at these times, but they also ask challenging questions: Why are there starving people in the world? Who are the poor in our community and what can we do to help them? Where does the money go?

The children are discovering ways in school to celebrate their differences and strengths to create their unique sense of who they are. Living in a diverse world is, for me, something to celebrate not be afraid or suspicious. We have our friend Harikat from the Leicester Sikh community, coming to share his faith stories with us plus the school is working towards a Silver Linguamarque award by increasing our teaching and learning of French across the school. In challenging times, searching for positive ways to feel part of the global community remains a priority for us as a Christian school.

A NATION'S TRIBUTE
11TH NOVEMBER 2018
100 YEARS OF REMEMBRANCE

Hepworth Remembers

Charles Weller

Charles was born in 1890 in Lawford, Essex. By age 6 he was living in Hepworth, originally in Church Lane, but subsequently in Wood Lane. His father was a bootmaker and farmer. His mother was a schoolmistress, one of his sisters an assistant teacher and another sister working in a home for waifs and strays. By 1911, Charles was a schoolmaster in Earl's Coln, Essex.

Come the war, Charles was one of the first men to volunteer at Hepworth, and joined the East Surrey Regiment, 8th Battalion (as did his brother John).

He was killed in action on 30th September, 1916 France and Flanders, a day which saw great losses for the Battalion. He was 26. His brother John survived the war and emigrated to Australia, and over the years, the Weller family moved away from Hepworth.

The men who came home

In the month of November especially, we should also remember and pay tribute to the Hepworth men who witnessed and survived the horrors of war.

Having seen and lived through terrible things, many of these men came home and rebuilt their lives in the green fields of Suffolk.

Suffolk Highways recently investigated the flooding at Reeves Hall. They were able to jet and camera along the pipe under the verge, as well as the pipe from the fully across the road, which outfalls into the same ditch. There was a small crack found in each, but nothing which might prevent the pipes from working efficiently. It may be that there was a blockage in the longer pipe, which the survey crew was able to jet out on the day. Any local view can be fed back to the team, via the Clerk. Hepworth Weather (as measured on The Street)

July 2019:	Max. Temp:	36.6°C	25th
	Min. Temp:	7.2°C	3rd

	Wettest Day:	22.7mm	27th
August 2019:	Max. Temp:	32.4°C	26th, 27th
	Min. Temp:	8.3°C	13th
	Total Rainfall:	32.0mm
	Wettest Day:	10.2mm	14th

July 2019: A warm month with rainfall slightly below average. A short but intense heatwave occurred between the 22nd and 26th. Day and night temperature records were broken at this station with a Max. of 36.6C on the 25th, followed by a night Min. of 20.6C on the 26th. This heatwave was remarkable because it was not associated with previous weeks of hot, dry weather. Requests for a new recipe book supporting the bereaved

A new book is to be launched next year aimed at helping those who are newly bereaved to learn the art of Cooking for One, along with advice on self-help and wellbeing.

The book will feature anecdotes, stories and recipes from people who have lost a loved one. Submissions for inclusion in the book are invited now and anyone who has experience of losing a loved one is welcome to take part. The publishers would particularly like to hear from anyone willing to share their experiences of bereavement as well as ideas for comforting and simple food. Cooking for One is the brainchild of Norfolk-based Rosedale Funeral Home. All profits from the venture will be donated to Cruse Bereavement Care, which provides services across Suffolk and Norfolk.

Director Simon Beckett-Allen will edit the book, which will be in memory of his sister Sarah who died suddenly in 2015. He says Rosedale's experience of supporting people after bereavement often shows that vital tasks like cooking are forgotten about after a loved one dies. "When someone loses a husband, wife or partner after a long relationship their whole world is turned upside down," he said.

Hepworth - Climate Action

"Trees are a natural climate solution"

#naturenow

Children's Project

We have 12 free trees to give to children in the Hepworth area who would really enjoy planting, watering and taking care of a new tree in their garden

Planting trees is one of the most effective ways of capturing carbon and fighting climate chaos

If you are between the ages of 5 -12 years old please apply to jane@emerging-leaders.net or phone 07762 232 927

“There are many adjustments that need to be made and new skills to be learned. Cooking a meal is often the furthest thing on their mind, especially if the person was used to cooking for others and is now on their own. Alternatively, if someone has lost the person who was the main cook in the household, they may struggle to fend for themselves.”

“We would love to hear from people who have been bereaved that can offer simple, great recipes that will inspire a person on their own to cook for themselves, as well as telling us something about how they coped with the loss of their loved one who we can hopefully then celebrate in the book.” Submissions are open from now until January next year, when all the entries will be collated and a range of them will be included in the book, which is due to be launched next summer.

For further information about Cooking for One and a link to the submission form, please visit

<http://rosedalefuneralhome.co.uk/cookingforone>

There is also a printed form available for download on the website for anyone who would rather submit their story and recipe by post.

FIREWORKS & YOUR PETS

Bonfire Night can be a very distressing time for your pet.

With the likelihood of fireworks being set off in your area, it is important to prepare as much as possible to provide a calm and relaxed environment for your pet on the night. Animals can become easily startled by sudden loud noises and flashes, so making sure that they are microchipped or wearing an ID tag gives you a better chance of being reunited should they escape. Whether you have a dog, cat, horse or smaller pet, these tips will provide you with all the information you need to know about keeping your pet at ease on Bonfire Night.

HORSE:

- Ensure that fireworks are not set off near your horse's field or stable.
- Let neighbours and event organisers know that there will be horses close by.
- Try and keep your horses in their normal environment, whether it is a stable or a field, to keep them in their normal routine. If they have a companion, it is best to keep them together.

- Give your horse plenty of hay to keep them occupied.
- Remain calm and relaxed around your horse to keep them at ease.
- Do not risk riding your horse while fireworks are being set off.
- Try to keep your horse calm but remain a safe distance from your horse; a spooked horse can be dangerous.
- Ensure you, or someone experienced is present with your horse when fireworks are being set off.
- Have a fire procedure in place if there are any bonfires nearby.
- In the morning check your field for any stray fireworks.

DOG:

- Try to walk your dog in daylight hours before the fireworks start.
- Keep them indoors with dog flap or gate shut. If your dog needs to go to the toilet later on in the evening, go out with them to help them feel more secure.
- Draw the curtains so your dog isn't startled by any sudden flashes.
- Give your dog a new toy to keep them distracted and occupied.
- Create a 'den' for your dog with blankets and bedding, this will give them an area to calm down and muffle the noises.
- Try to act normal around your dog if they become fearful or stressed, reassuring them can reinforce their fear.

CAT:

1. Keep your cat indoors with windows, doors and cat flap shut and secured so they can't escape if spooked.
2. Draw the curtains so your cat isn't startled by any sudden flashes.
3. Put the TV or music on to mute the sound of the fireworks.
4. Give your cat a safe place to hide with blankets and bedding to mask the noises.
5. If your cat isn't used to being kept indoors, provide extra litter trays.
6. If your cat is hiding don't try and lure them out, this can cause them to become more anxious and stressed.
7. Try not to soothe your cat too much if they become distressed, this can make them worry more if they sense you are anxious.

SMALLER ANIMALS:

Don't forget the smaller members of the family on Bonfire Night like hamsters, guinea pigs and rabbits.

Ensure that they have extra hay or bedding to help mask the sound of the fireworks. The extra bedding also allows them to burrow deeper so they feel safe and occupied.

If your small pets live outside in cages or hutches, place them in a quieter area, either indoors or in a garden shed or garage. Partly cover cages and pens with extra blankets, carpets or a rug to help drown out the noise.

CAN

- We are a small village group in Hepworth, singing for fun, looking for someone who plays a musical instrument to assist us.

YOU

- We are open to negotiating some travel expenses
